A $500,000 GIFT FROM ALUMNI TO STUDENTS

Renovation of Sherman Field

The renovated Edgar A. Sherman Field in McConagha Stadium is the newest gift from Muskingum alumni to current and future Muskingum students.

Thanks to the leadership of five student-athlete alumni—Daniel H. Plumly '75, Joe DiVittorio '84, John Romeo '71, James A. Purdy '85, and Tim Palmer '88—Sherman Field boasts a state-of-the-art playing surface for our football program that is also available year-round for a variety of student activities.

The alumni-led effort inspired gifts of $500,000 from 68 alumni and friends in less than a year. The new turf was ready for practice and competition for the 2005 football season.

Bob Patin '64, chair of the development committee of the board of trustees, presided over a recognition dinner honoring the donors. The evening was highlighted by the unveiling of a plaque inscribed with the donors' names. Jeff Tibbs '06 and Matt Harmon '06, football co-captains, and Alainna Amicone '06, student senate president, expressed the appreciation of student-athletes and the entire student body.

The new turf was dedicated in a pre-homecoming game ceremony led by President Steele and many of the donors. In her remarks, President Steele thanked the donors for their generosity, faith and trust in Muskingum, saying, "This is more than a contribution to athletics and recreation. It is a visible investment in this institution, and a tribute to our shared commitment to our students." ■

SHERMAN FIELD'S PROGRASS TURF

Sherman Field's state-of-the-art turf is an all-rubber system from ProGrass LLC (Pittsburgh), a leader in synthetic field design, manufacture and installation.

The turf is built in several layers. A woven backing is tufted with 2-1/2" twisted green fibers made of polyethylene. This creates the turf carpet. A secondary backing, made of polyurethane, permanently locks the tufts into place. Infill, the last layer, is composed of recycled rubber granules that are installed on site. ■

BIRTH OF THE TURF

The installation of the ProGrass playing surface begins with the removal of the natural grass on the field. The surface is then leveled with gravel and a custom drainage system installed. From that point forward, the process is as much art as it is science.

Despite the enormity of the project, it is virtually all done by hand.

Installation begins at the 50-yard line. Using simple string plumb lines, the crew squares the first, ten -yard-wide strip of "grass" (green turf carpet) along the sidelines. Using that

EXPANDED FACILITIES FOR ALL

The all-weather playing surface brings numerous benefits to the Fighting Muskie football program.

Because of its central location, the renovated Sherman Field is a showcase for recruiting. In addition, seven of the ten Ohio Athletic Conference teams already compete on synthetic turf.

Unlike grass, the durable turf can be used continuously, providing optimal playing and practice conditions at all times. Players can train on their competition field, unhindered by the rainy springs and falls of our region.

These same qualities of consistency and reliability offer opportunities for many additional uses because the turf is, essentially, a 6,400 square foot facility expansion.

Varsity softball and baseball are able, for the first time, to practice and scrimmage outdoors and under lights in preparation for spring season.

Varsity soccer teams can practice on the turf, saving the grass competition fields for games and scrimmages.

Physical education classes in outdoor sports such as soccer, field hockey and flag football, long constrained by being indoors, can now be conducted without compromise.

Intramurals, an important activity involving 20 percent of the student body, have also been enhanced. For example, the championship flag football game was played on the field under the lights. ■ first strip as a square angle to the sideline, each subsequent strip is laid on top of its predecessor. The two strips are sewn by hand across the entire width of the field—160 feet. The sewn pieces are then opened like pages of a book to lay flat on the field. This process is repeated time after time until the entire playing surface—6,400 square yards—is covered.

Once the complete green turf carpet is in position, the crew hand cuts each and every white yard marker, hash mark, number and letter that appears on the field and in the end zones. The letters and numbers are cut with large stencils, and the same stencils are used to cut the corresponding shape into the green turf that is already installed. The shapes are then meticulously fitted together and permanently bonded into place by hand.

Throughout this process, the field is constantly rolled by hand to assure a level playing surface. In addition, the dimensions of the field are constantly checked using a common (though very long) tape measure. If the measurement of the two long sides of the field is not the same, the turf is out of square and must be adjusted.

Finally, infill is applied. Tiny pellets of ground rubber are sprayed onto the entire field. Using special machines, the pellets are “shaken” so that they sink into the base of the turf carpet. This provides stability and resilience to the turf.

The vast majority of the work done by the installation crew is done on hands and knees with common, hardware store carpet knives, non-degradable nylon thread and patience. ■

THE LONG MAGENTA LINE William T. Dentzer, Jr. '51

ACTIVIST, LEADER, STATESMAN, FINANCIER

Statesman and financier William T. Dentzer, Jr. has helped shape our modern era of finance, economic development and foreign policy.

Well-known as the founding chairman and CEO of the Depository Trust Company, Mr. Dentzer also held key foreign and economic policy positions in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

As a Muskingum freshman, he learned of an important new national student organization and attended the First NSA Congress in Madison, Wisconsin.

Just three years later, after serving as student body president at Muskingum and graduating with honors, Mr. Dentzer became the fourth elected president of the NSA, which was then “regarded as the most repre-

The following year, he was elected assistant secretary to the newly-formed Coordinating Secretariat of National Unions of Students, which served the international student community, and was founded by the NSA and international sister organizations.

In American Students Organize, Mr. Dentzer and other student leaders of the time have compiled a first-person chronicle of a pivotal time in our nation’s history. In its review of the book, The Chronicle of Higher Education stated, “Told a half-century later, the tale of the nation’s oldest and largest student group traces the emergence of a contemporary ideal: the college student as a highly engaged engine of civic action.” ■

William T. Dentzer, Jr. '51, Anthology Contributing Editor

“The student leaders who emerged after World War II were intent upon dismantling the old ways of paternalism, elitism, discrimination and segregation. Believing strongly in the nation’s founding principles of ‘liberty and justice for all,’ they brought this vision into their religious, social and political organizations and into the halls of strengthened student governments.”

GREATEST BUSINESS LEADERS of the 20th CENTURY

Caldwell

Young

From a comprehensive study by the Harvard Business School Leadership Initiative comes the story of the greatest business leaders of the twentieth century: In Their Time: The Greatest Business Leaders of the Twentieth Century. With a scope that ranges from “unsung heroes to legends like Sam Walton and Bill Gates,” the authors have built the first canon of great business leaders and, in the process, framed a new concept of leadership—contextual intelligence.

“Great business leaders possess more than celebrated traits like charisma and an appetite for risk. They have ‘contextual intelligence’—a profound ability to understand the zeitgeist of their times and harness it to create successful organizations.”

Of the many thousands of fine men and women who have shaped modern life through business endeavors, only a very few “sit at the pinnacle of success—individuals whose legacies have truly stood the test of time.”

Not one, but two, Muskingum College alumni have such legacies—Philip Caldwell and Walter Young. ■

From the Harvard Business School Leadership Institute

PHILIP CALDWELL

“Caldwell was the first CEO of Ford who was not a member of the family. He is credited with orchestrating one of the most dramatic and successful turnarounds in business history. Through his focus on quality, commitment to research, and open employment practices, he revolutionized the Ford business—introducing the multi-year best-selling Taurus and sparking a new culture and a new era of profitability.”

WALTER YOUNG

“When Young joined Champion Enterprises, the diversified housing and recreational vehicle company had just filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection. In his first six months in office, he drastically reorganized the leadership structure. A growing economy provided a boost a few years later, allowing the company to make some strategic acquisitions, and this growth has continued throughout Young’s term. By 1996, Champion was the number two company in both the mid-size motor coach and manufactured housing industries.”

Our community-based learning initiative comes of age

The Muskingum College CENTER FOR REGIONAL PLANNING & DEVELOPMENT

Muskingum last wrote about Drs. Walter Huber and Stephen Van Horn when students in their political science and geology classes successfully redrew the political boundaries of two neighboring municipalities—Zanesville and Cambridge—using the college's sophisticated geographic information system.

Ever since then, both communities have counted Muskingum students as contributing members of their teams in ever-evolving projects from crime mapping to downtown visioning. The paid, year-round staffing support by the students, over 5,000 hours annually, helps the towns find affordable long-term solutions to complex issues.

A name and a mission

This continuing collaboration of students and faculty with regional community leaders now has a name and a mission. The Muskingum College Center for Regional Planning and Development is dedicated to making a meaningful and positive impact in our region. Through MCCRPD, students can act on their desire to engage in real-world application of their classroom learning and to make a difference in the world.

Engaged scholarship

Institutions of higher education and communities have much to teach and learn from each other. Community-based learning is a well-established educational model that encourages a strong relationship among communities with pressing needs and limited resources, students who wish to widen their classroom boundaries, and educators who understand the value of applied studies.

A multidisciplinary hub

MCCRPD is expressly designed to be a multidisciplinary hub for all kinds of community-based learning projects from all areas of campus. History students of Dr. Bill Kerrigan, for example, have just published a book on the history of Cambridge under contract with Arcadia Publishing, the leading publisher of regional and local history in the United States. A team of students wrote the book proposal, mapped out the chapters, contacted local history groups, conducted primary research (including oral history interviews and the selection and scanning of archived historic photos), and wrote the stories and photo captions. ■

MUSKINGUM WELCOMES TWO NEW TRUSTEES

Barbara Young Morris '67

Barbara Morris is a principal with Winston Partners, Inc. of Chicago. She is an advisor to CEOs and CFOs of client companies on matters relating to communications strategy, corporate governance and relationship management with the financial community.

Formed in 1984, Winston Partners provides strategic corporate advisory, corporate disclosure and investor relations services to select private and publicly owned companies. Much of the clientele are IPOs and young public companies.

Before joining Winston in 1995, Ms. Morris spent seventeen years with Baxter International, a global leader in health-care, advancing from manager to assistant treasurer, and then to corporate vice president and treasurer. In 1992, she was named senior vice president for human resources and later for corporate communications.

Earlier in her career, Ms. Morris spent several years with Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company and received an MBA from Harvard University.

Ms. Morris serves on the board of directors of the Lake Forest Graduate School of Management, where she is chair of the business affairs committee, and previously served on the Baxter Foundation board of directors.

Several years ago, Ms. Morris established the Nellie Downing Burns Scholarship Fund at Muskingum in memory of her grandmother. ■

Daniel H. Plumly '75

Daniel Plumly is a partner with Critchfield, Critchfield and Johnston, Ltd. in Wooster, Ohio. His legal specialties include corporate, banking, business planning, commercial and natural resources law.

Mr. Plumly received his JD from the Case Western Reserve University School of Law, where he was elected to the national honorary scholastic society, Order of the Coif, and was a member of the National Moot Court team. He graduated summa cum laude from Muskingum.

Mr. Plumly led the fund raising initiative for the recent renovation of Sherman Field. He served on the leadership council for Design for Tomorrow and was a member of the alumni council.

Mr. Plumly is actively involved in his community. He has served and is serving as a trustee of Goodwill Industries of Wayne County, Inc., Main Street, Inc., the United Methodist Church of Wooster, the Wooster Country Club, the Wooster Lacrosse Club and Meals on Wheels of Stark and Wayne Counties. In addition, he has been a volunteer coach in football, basketball and lacrosse.

Mr. Plumly and his wife, Anita, have three children. ■ as a speech communication and theatre major at Muskingum. She was president of the Muskingum Players and was a member of the philosophy honorary, Phi Sigma Tau, and of the women’s senior honorary. As a high school student, she visited Muskingum’s campus only to please a summer theatre camp mentor. “But when I stood on the

After graduation, Karn worked for Muskingum’s admission office for two years, and later joined the Dean Witter municipal bond trading desk in Chicago. Prior to founding MSI, Karn served as director of public relations and east coast marketing for the Chicago Stock Exchange and was vice president of marketing for a Chicago-based options and stock trading firm. ■

Executive in residence

Michelle Neptune Brown '94

Agency field executive, State Farm Insurance

Muskingum students gained firsthand knowledge about a fast-track career when Michelle Neptune Brown returned to campus as executive in residence under Muskingum’s Leadership Initiative Program.

Brown told the students, “in a choice between a career that pays a lot and one you are passionate about, take the one that you love. Be proud of your Muskingum experience.”

An agency field executive for State Farm Insurance, Brown is charged with the success of all agents in Lincoln and Omaha, Nebraska. In this highly visible and valued position, she is a management consultant, business planner and sales coach to the agents, and is the primary link between these independent contractors and State Farm’s head office.

Brown has been promoted rapidly since she joined State Farm as an agent in Zanesville in 1999. Her next move will be from the agency side to the corporate side of the business.

During her senior year, Brown had three job offers. Two stemmed from student internships with AT&T and with Merrill Lynch, and the third was with IKON Office Solutions, the largest independent distributor of office equipment and document management services.

Advice from friend and fellow alum, Tim Palmer '88, was a turning point for her. Brown took his recommendation to accept an IKON offer since, as he told her, “if you can be successful selling office equipment, you can be successful in anything.” She joined IKON, and was so successful that she was selected by management to break into the notoriously challenging and low-margin federal government business for the firm. Competing head to head with Xerox, her resulting business brought her the highest gross profit in the company. Brown is married to Rick Brown '90; they have two young daughters. ■

Holly Walters '88

Senior vice president, business strategy and channel support, Chase Home Finance

Senior executive Holly Walters returned to campus as executive in residence in a visit that was hosted by the department of economics, accounting and business.

Walters, a senior vice president with Chase Home Finance, met with business and technology students in a variety of settings and discussed issues ranging from business ethics to the relationship between business and technology. “Sometimes you have to take a stand for what’s right regardless of the risk,” she told students.

Walters joined Chase Manhattan Mortgage Corporation in 2002. That same year she was promoted to senior vice president and director of program management, where she directed all strategic operational and technology initiatives.

Walter’s success in this sophisticated arena of business leadership led to her appointment in 2004 as senior vice president of business strategy and channel support for Chase Home Finance in Phoenix. She directs all global strategic technology and process improvement initiatives for the firm’s enormous call center originations channel.

In an interview with the Black & Magenta, Walters acknowledged the importance of her Muskingum education, which “gave her not only the knowledge needed for her major, but also the ability to interact with others with ease.” In addition, she attributed her Muskingum liberal arts education to providing her with career opportunities.

Walters graduated from Muskingum with a double major in economics and business and a minor in French. She was immediately hired by Banc One Corporation, where she enjoyed a successful thirteen-year career. During this time she received an MBA from The Ohio State University. Prior to her Chase career, Walters served as national client services manager for PricewaterhouseCoopers. Walters serves on the advisory panel for Muskingum’s new graduate degree, Master of Information Strategy, Systems and Technology. ■

DNA Analysis System Adds Breadth & Depth to Muskingum's Science Program

A state-of-the-art DNA analysis system is opening a new world of study for students at Muskingum. Only a handful of undergraduate institutions in the country offer such a sophisticated molecular biology research tool.

This remarkable instrument "will be integrated into the curriculum at all course levels in the biology and chemistry departments as well as the molecular biology, neuroscience, and conservation science programs," explained Amy Santas, assistant professor of biology. "Eight classroom laboratories are already equipped with the software that links to the sequencer. There will be applications in other academic disciplines and collaboration with other organizations as well."

In a process called DNA sequencing, students will learn how to identify the exact order of the chemical building blocks, or nucleotides, in a segment of DNA. It is these sequences that give each organism its own unique traits. For humans, there are 3 billion of these building blocks.

Students will also use a technique called AFLP (amplified fragment length polymorphism) to learn how to distinguish between individuals of the same species using only samples of their DNA. This process is often called DNA fingerprinting.

Research has always been encouraged and supported at Muskingum, even in entry-level courses, and the 4300 DNA Analysis System, acquired under a grant from LI-COR Biosciences, will further enrich this essential training for graduate school and life beyond college.

Learning what good quality DNA research is will serve students well in what has been called the "biology century". Genomics research, understanding genetic material on a large scale, is having a major impact on research across the life sciences.

LI-COR Biosciences, a pioneer in the development of integrated instrumentation for advanced biological research, has an ongoing commitment to support active, inquiry-based learning of molecular biology at the undergraduate level. Its matching funds grant program allows qualifying schools to acquire LI-COR DNA sequencing instruments and software.

Assistant professor of biology Amy Santas, working collaboratively with colleagues Brian Bergstrom (biology), James Dooley (biology), Oluwatoyin Osunsanya (biology) and Deepamali Perera (chemistry), initiated and wrote Muskingum's grant application after being informed of the opportunity by science division coordinator Ray Rataiczak.

Background information on DNA and genomics research courtesy: National Human Genome Research Institute genome.gov.

Junior Melanie Hilton served a summer internship at The Hague, Netherlands, working on the war crimes trial of Slobodan Milosevic. She was the only American undergraduate to do so.

AlumniMuskieInterns

Let's get acquainted: sponsor a Muskie intern.

Internships are an invaluable way for students to get acquainted with a profession...and for employers to get acquainted with potential valuable employees.

Internships that are sponsored by alumni enrich the experience immeasurably. That's why, year after year, IBM, Resource Systems and other organizations enthusiastically welcome Muskingum students as interns.

Scott McBeth '81 is director of software development for IBM Printing Systems. For the past two years, IBM has accepted a Muskingum student into its highly competitive internship program. Scott Ziegler '04 and Mark Waller '05 were both hired upon their graduation.

Resource Systems in New Concord was founded 25 years ago by Larry Triplett '80 and Greg Adams '81. As entrepreneurs, Greg and Larry understood the value of interns for a young technology company. Today, 18 interns later and as leaders of a successful enterprise, they continue to hire Muskingum interns.

Let's get acquainted. Find out how you too can benefit as an AlumniMuskieInterns sponsor. Contact me with your ideas & questions.

Annual Faculty Awards for Excellence

Muskingum's faculty awards recognize exceptional merit on the part of individual faculty members. Each award honors a member of the Long Magenta Line who exemplified the characteristics of the award which bears his or her name.

William Oxley Thompson Award for Excellence in Teaching. Awarded to David Craft, Associate Professor of Mathematics

Dr. Craft joined the faculty in 1993. He earned his bachelor's degree from Illinois College, his master's degree from Miami University and his doctorate from Western Michigan University.

William Rainey Harper Award for Outstanding Scholarship. Awarded to André DeCuir, Associate Professor of English and to Laura Schumann, Associate Professor of Music

Dr. DeCuir joined the faculty in 1997. He earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Southwestern Louisiana and his doctorate from the University of Kentucky.

Dr. Schumann joined the faculty in 1999. She earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Colorado, her master's degree from the University of California and her doctorate from Texas Tech University.

Cora I. Orr Faculty Service Award. Awarded to Charles Drubel, Professor of Business

Professor Drubel joined the faculty in 1986. He earned his bachelor's degree from Duke University and his master of business administration degree from the College of William and Mary. ■

At the request of Ohio Governor Bob Taft, Muskingum served as the setting for the Appalachian Regional Commission's fall conference, Winning the Economic Future: The Rural Advantage. The conference explored innovative strategies to help Appalachia's rural communities thrive in the 21st century's global economy.

When Young Alums Speak, Students Listen

"Helping students believe in themselves and their potential accomplishments" is one of the most important and difficult challenges facing a concerned professor, believes James Dooley, assistant professor of biology.

Dooley and other Muskingum professors know that no amount of classroom eloquence about life after college has the same impact as a classroom visit from a recent graduate. When young alums speak of the value of their Muskingum education, students listen. They begin to see possibilities for their own lives and to tie theory to practice.

The science division invited two recent graduates to speak at its annual undergraduate research conference. William Hockaday '01, delivered the keynote address, speaking of the impact of his Muskingum education on his career choices. An accomplished researcher, he has a doctorate in chemistry from The Ohio State University and is an applied analytical chemist specializing in environmental research. Jonathan Enlow '01, who received his doctor of osteopathic medicine degree from Ohio University and completed general surgery training at Riverside Hospital in Columbus, provided a view of the MD and DO medical school experience.

When Ian Hughes '04 was an undergraduate majoring in environmental science and biology, he did not intend to go to graduate school. A campus talk by a young alum, however, became a catalyst for changing that decision. His resulting graduate school experience was so positive that he voluntarily returned to Muskingum to speak to current students.

Associate professor of business Gary Golden learned long ago about the natural credibility that a young alum has for students and how to use that credibility in the classroom.

Golden invites alumni sales professionals to speak to his professional selling class run Business Club managed, organized and moderated the entire event. More than 60 interested students heard four alums tell their stories of making a successful transition from student to professional.

Four different stories emerged, with a common theme. Whether learning about communication and teamwork as a student-athlete, developing leadership skills through run-each year. "Students are challenged and inspired by this," he explains. "There is a huge value for students in meeting alums who are three or four years out of school."

The success of his program inspired him to expand it to a panel discussion. The studentning for student office, forging relationships with coaches and professors, building initiative and independence through internships or being inspired by specific classes, these students were well-prepared for their futures by taking advantage of Muskingum's varied offerings. ■

Geno Ford New Head Coach of Men's Basketball

Geno Ford was named head coach of the Muskingum's men's basketball team, replacing the retiring Jim Burson '63. "Finding a worthy successor to a coach of the stature of Jim Burson is a challenge," remarked President Steele. "We believe we have met that challenge in Geno Ford."

Ford enjoyed great success as assistant coach at Kent State University from 2002 to 2005. He helped guide the Golden Flashes to three straight 20-win seasons, two Mid-American Conference (MAC) East Division titles, two appearances in the MAC Tournament Championship game and three consecutive post-season appearances in the National Invitation Tournament.

"I'm extremely excited and happy to have the chance to come home and coach at Muskingum," said Ford. "I carry a very high opinion of the Muskingum athletic tradition, and it's an honor to follow Coach Burson's legacy. I'm looking forward to becoming a part of the Muskingum College family."

In 2002, Ford was named Coach of the Year for the American Midwest Conference (AMC), after a successful year as head coach at Shawnee State University in Portsmouth, Ohio. He led the team to a 22-10 record and second-place finish in the AMC, which was a ten-game improvement over the previous year.

Ford is among the all-time leading scorers in the history of Ohio University, his alma mater, where he finished with 1,752 career points and was named to the All-MAC First Team. He was honored as "Mr. Basketball" by the Ohio Associated Press in 1993 as one of Ohio's all-time leading high school scorers. After thirteen years, his second-place scoring record still stands—between Jay Burson (#1) and LeBron James (#3).

After his undergraduate graduation in 1997, Ford received a master's degree from OU in 1999, where he began his coaching career as an assistant coach and as a graduate assistant.

Ford's father, Gene Ford '74, a former All-American, retired after 24 years as head coach of the Cambridge High School boys' basketball team. Gene now serves as a volunteer coach for his son, Geno, and Geno serves as a volunteer coach for his older son, Darin.

Ford and his wife, Traci, have a second son, David. ■

50th Anniversary of Landmark Football Season Coach Ed Sherman & members of undefeated '55 team are honored

The rededication of Sherman Field was a juncture of past, present and future Muskingum athletics. While celebrating the new turf and its support of current and future student-athletes in all sports, the college also recognized the 50th anniversary of a significant year in Muskingum's gridiron history.

In 1955, a young team of players brought their coach, Ed Sherman '36, his first undefeated season. This was Sherman's third OAC championship and a benchmark of his Hall of Fame career. Self-described as short on talent, the student-athletes must surely have been long on intelligence and determination (and certainly not short on talent) for in addition to a perfect season, the team turned out three All-Americans that year: Bob Carlisle '58, Joe McDaniel '56 and Rudy Gerlach '56.

Members of the team reunited with each other and their coach during the turf rededication festivities. ■

Queen Molly Jones '07 & King Kevin Sanders '07 reigned over homecoming festivities, which carried the theme, Just Look At Us Now! The classes of '90, '95 and '00 celebrated their reunions.

Jennifer Segner-Filtz '00 SOFTBALL Segner was one of college softball's dominant pitchers from 1997 to 2000. The former All-American Muskie ended her career with 117 victories, the most ever by a Division III pitcher. She ranked 11th among pitchers in all NCAA divisions. Segner also holds the D-III career records for games started (140), victories in a season (40) and consecutive wins in a season (32).

John Wells SPECIAL AWARD - SOFTBALL The special award, presented posthumously, exemplifies the spirit of Muskingum College. Wells was assistant pitching coach for the Muskies for 10 years. He was instrumental to Muskingum's 2001 national championship, the first in college history. Wells and his coaching colleagues were named National Softball Coaching Staff of the Year by SpeedLine/NFCA in 2001. Accepting the award was his widow, Jane Tedrick Wells Sherman '75.

Bob Gerhardstein '77 FOOTBALL Gerhardstein, an offensive tackle, was a two-time first-team All-Ohio Athletic Conference selection and helped lead Muskingum to the OAC championship in 1975. He was honored with the OAC's Mike Gregory Award (most outstanding offensive lineman in the conference) in 1976.

Paul Christopher '87 MEN'S GOLF Christopher was a four-year All-Ohio Athletic Conference honoree and three-year Honorable Mention All-American. He qualified for the NCAA National Tournament three times and helped lead the Muskies to the OAC team championship in 1987.

Seniors Join 1,000-Point Club

Guard Zach Ross '06 and forward Cole Pittis '06, senior basketball players, completed their careers as the newest members of Muskingum's elite 1,000-point club.

Pittis was named to the D3hoops.com National Team of the Week as well as to the 2006 first team All-Ohio Athletic Conference in 2006. A three-time All-

OAC performer and OAC Player of the Week, Pittis ended his Muskingum basketball career with 1,008 points. In his senior year, he led the Fighting Muskies with eight double-doubles, a .552 field goal shooting percentage and 8.4 rebounds per game.

Ross ended his Muskingum tenure with 1,361 points to rank eighth all-time at the school. His career-high 45 points against the University of Redlands assured his place in the 1,000 point club. Ross also holds the school record for consecutive free throws made (38). A three-time All-OAC honoree and a former OAC Player of the Week, in his senior year Ross averaged a career-best 16.1 points per game and hit 74 three-pointers. ■

A New Way to Celebrate Our Student-Athlete Accomplishments

New apparel dons the Rec Center in the form of first-ever Ohio Athletic Conference championship banners. Two sets of banners, red for regular season championships and black for tournament championships, represent Fighting Muskie victories in the highly-competitive OAC.

The banners were made possible through gifts in memory of the late Jim Vejsicky '73, honoring Jim's devotion to Muskingum College and to the entirety of its sports program.

Jim's relationship with Muskingum was deeply rooted. He was a student-athlete alumnus (basketball, 1,000 point club) who was married to an alumna, Janet Connors Vejsicky '72; the father of two student athlete alumni—Geoffrey '97 (golf) and Kristen '01 (volleyball); a longtime volunteer men's basketball coach; a twenty-year veteran of running the clock in football and basketball; and an enthusiastic campus host each year for Alumni Weekend.

2006 Athletic Hall of Fame Nominations

A highlight of each homecoming weekend is the induction of new members to the Muskingum College Athletic Hall of Fame.

To qualify: Former Muskie athletes must have earned at least two letters in one sport or one letter in two sports. If a female athlete competed before letters were awarded, her outstanding accomplishments or record in athletics will be considered. Candidates must have graduated at least five years prior to selection. A coach or athletic administrator nominee must have lettered in a sport while a student or have been a member of Muskingum's staff for at least ten years. Candidates must be retired or no longer employed by Muskingum. Deceased alumni, coaches or administrators may be nominated according to the preceding standards. Those nominated, but not selected last year, will automatically be reconsidered this year. There is no limit to the number of times an individual may be nominated.

Nominations for Alumni Distinguished Service Awards

For 35 years, the Distinguished Service Awards have paid tribute to those Muskingum alumni who make a difference in our world. The presentation of these awards to the honored recipients is an annual highlight of Alumni Weekend. Nominations are accepted year-round.

Nominees must have made a qualitative difference through their exemplary service to humankind and through their professional endeavors. Any living Muskingum graduate or former student is eligible.

General Qualifications for the Award

Adopted by the Muskingum College Alumni Council on May 22, 1971

Such awards are conferred sparingly and thoughtfully only upon persons who have achieved distinction in a field involving full use of an individual's creative powers, both intellectually and aesthetically, keeping foremost in mind in all cases that the recipient's accomplishments should clearly reflect significant service to humankind, so that the conferring of such an award will always accentuate and extend the values associated with Muskingum College.

Why have you nominated this person?

Send your reasons with this form to alumni@muskingum.edu or fax to (740) 826-8469 or mail to Alumni Office, Muskingum College, 163 Stormont Street, New Concord OH 43762. Call us anytime (740) 826 8131.
