Ryan Bobst has been recognized by the Ohio Foreign Language Association (OLFA) for excellence in language studies.

Ryan Bobst '07, a German and international affairs major from Washington Court House was recognized for his success as a German major, his study of French and Spanish and his interest in foreign language and international studies beyond work in the classroom, including his service as the Phi Sigma Iota foreign language honorary president.

Ryan received his award at the college’s Modern Language Department awards and recognitions ceremony, on April 24 2007

OFLA is one of the premier language organizations in the United States. It provides scholarships for students and teachers, promotes study abroad, holds regional workshops for professional development and provides professional in-service training through its annual conference.