News Center 8

Black And Magenta

1. Karen Diorio brings the campus up to date with local, state, and national news.
2. The FM-91 staff included Maryann Dabnis, Deb Freeman, Lorri Schmidt, Dwight Bowman, Mike Murphy, and
3. Everyone is curious about the equipment's capabilities.
4. These cameras bring the TV 8 news team to your dorm room.
5. The finished layout waits printing.
6. Linda Davis took on the editor's responsibility.
7. Ashwan smiles despite having three extra inches of story.
8. The entire staff works to meet press time.

Centerboard

1. Center Board was led by Terry Thomas, Scott Dittman, and President Donna Miller.
2. Marty Schmidt participated in one of the more entertaining CB undertakings — the Air Band Competition.
3. Men's Interclub officers for 81-82 were Greg Eldred, Mike Fenton — president, and Tim Finneran.
4. Serving as Student Senate officers were Kieran Esposito, David Mathie, Lynn Eshler, and Christie Hovis.

Orchesis

1. Lisa Miller and Laura Anderson dance their "swan song."

2. Dancing with your partners is as important as the individual performance.

3. The stage also extended down into the aisles of Brown Chapel.

4. Dads and other members of the audience added a special touch to the boogie finale.

5. The ruxedos added flash to this jazz number.

6. Phil and Gabrielle dance up a big band swing.

RA's

One of the major questions on most freshmen's minds as they are coming to Muskingum is "What is an RA, and why did it write to me?" As they soon find out, RA's are just about everything. They are campus road maps, social calendars, referees, pizza party connections, and Dear Abby rolled into one. The duties also extend beyond deciphering the Muskie way of life for confused freshmen. What do you do with a roommate you thought you knew, who should be number one on your dare pref., or what do you do when the McWeek has no scheduled event? — Ask an RA.

1. The Chorus performed under the direction of Jack Pererson and Richard Probert.

2. The Marching Muskies add razzle dazzle to Homecoming.

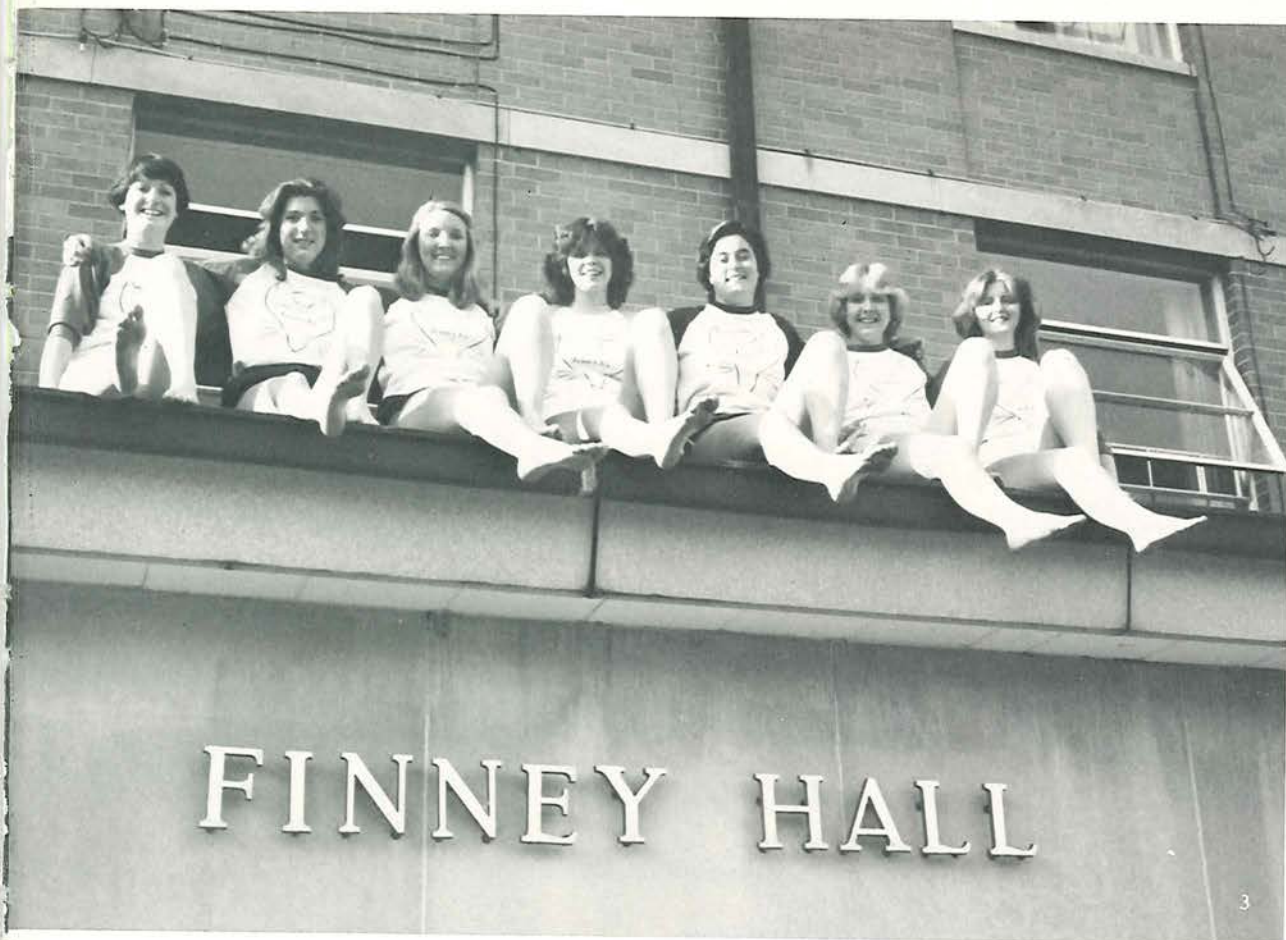

3. The Muskie Players worked hard to stage several productions.

4. The Thomas RA staff included Row 1: Ernie Sylvesrer, Mike Fenton, — RD, Greg Eldred, Row 2: Tim Willoughby, Tom Shelton, Jeff Harper, Dave Kreienberg, and Andy Geyer in lieu of Ron Green.

5. Memorial Hall was under the warchful eyes of Faith Campbell — RD, Jeannette Stonebraker, Partti Gallagher, Jessica Wehrum, Myra Zarezalo, Becky Gross, Julie Pissocra.

1. The Kelley RA staff includes: Row 1: Alicia Gratz, Lori Jones, Colleen Hawkins — RD, Jackie Sigado, Stephanie Spears, Row 2: Lisa Price, Bersy Beeghly, and Grechen Anaple.

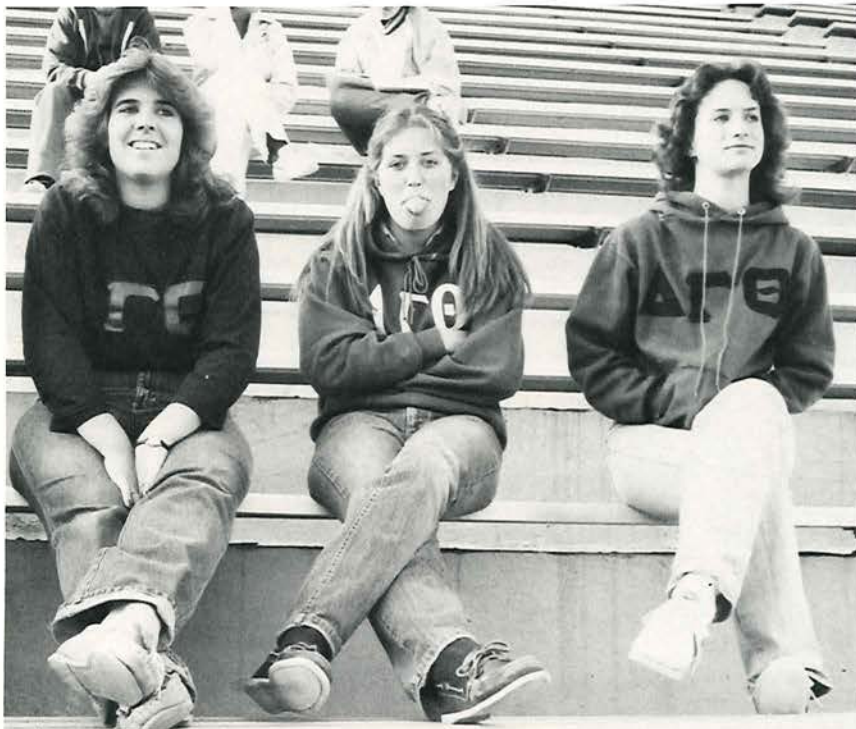

2. The staff of Patton was composed of (L to R) Jeff Glaub, Mike Mayo in lieu of Mike Farhart, Craig Miracle, Jeff Brown, Jan Bares — RD, John Reichley.

3. Working hard in Finney are (L to R) Lisa Zuber, Jane White, Luanne Luebben, Sally Stalder — RD, Karie Hagenbuch, Deb Olsen, and Parri Cline.

4. The Moore RA's for 81-82 were Dave Carlos, Mike Robinson, Andy Beech, Mark Relyea, Jeff Allenby, and above, Doug Dixon, and Debu Purohit.

SPORTS

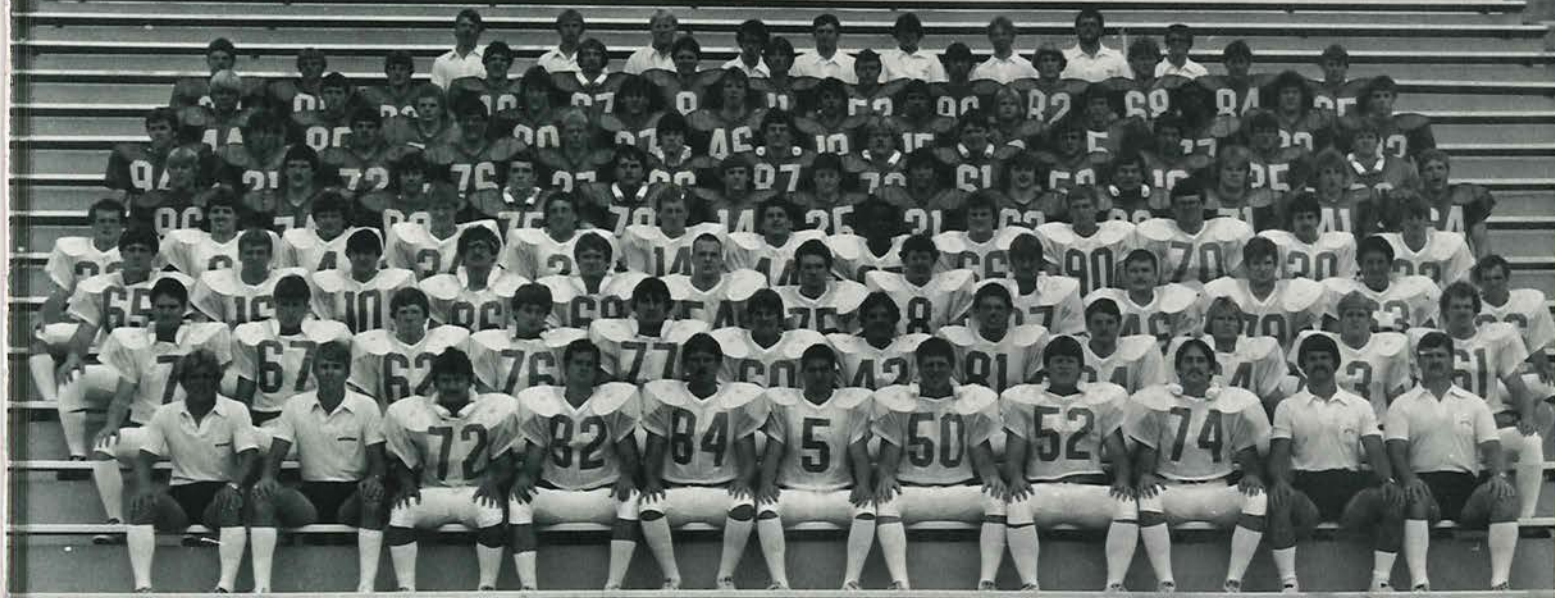

Football — '81

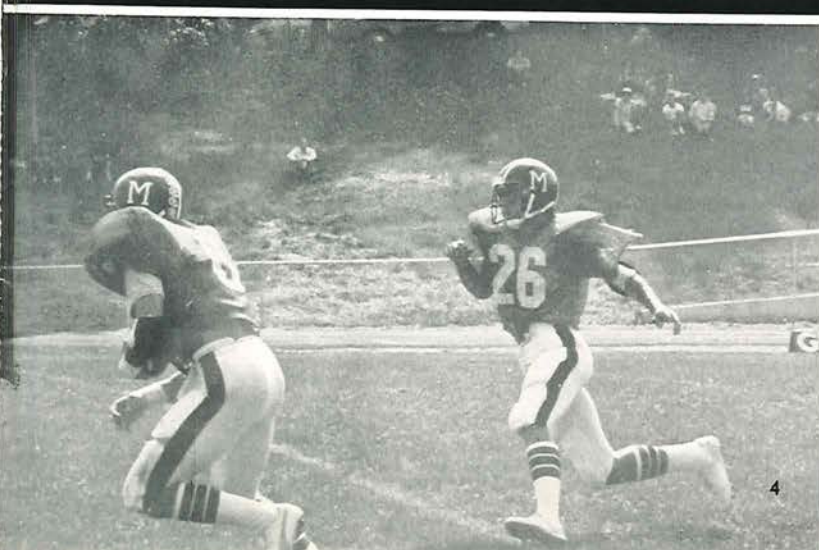

The Muskies began to rebuild under new coach, Jeff Heacock, in their '81 campaign. The season was typically that of a team on the upswing. Although the win/loss column didn't reflect it, the team showed strong skill and determination. Coach Heacock was able to pull from both young and experienced players. Bill Recinella and Alan Logan led the team as defensive and offensive captains, respectively. Under their leaders, individual talent, spirit, and dedication began to fuse into a team.

Muskies Enjoy Success

The Muskies posted a 17-10 record in the 1981-1982 season. This accomplishment is due to the efforts of many people. Coach Burson was able to rely on several talented young men. Seniors Joe Braidic, Eric Pohjala, and Dean Clark all made their last efforts for Muskingum one of their strongest. At the same time, David Shurt, and Mark Dempsey turned their rookie year into an impressive year. Myron Dulkoski led the team in points. He, along with Tim Lacey and Chris Easterling, showed promise of strong seasons in the future. As always, each individual's talent and energy was dedicated to a team effort.

Homecoming '81

Homecoming '81 celebrated the return of many loyal alumni and Muskie Spirit. As Muskingum attacked new plans for expansion and growth, the committee capitalized and centralized the festivities around the "Muskie Spirit is here again" theme. The celebration began Oct. 7 with the annual bonfire and all the "hot times" associated with it. The weekend provided a variety of activities. The highlights of Friday evening included the crowning of Patti Gallagher as the homecoming queen at Varsity Review. On Saturday everyone experienced trying to squeeze the float parade and football game in between reunions and visits to old hangouts. Each year Muskingum has been proud of its Homecoming celebration. Alumni are excited to return and Muskies are always happy to welcome them.

Air Guitars

Rock The Quad

We've always strummed an imaginary guitar or pounded a backbeat as we listen to "jams". Recently, however, this has advanced to become more than an idle sign of approval. The pledges of Spring 1982 all competed to show their mastery of the Air Guitar. Spectators were treated to all the visual effects of a rock concert. When the stereo finally cooled off, the Kianu pledges had danced their way to 1st place with their artistic impression of "I Love Rock and Roll".

1. Gerchen Turner demonstrates that costume is an important factor in that winning form.
2. The Sig pledges knew how to "Strike Up the Band".
3. Barb Page belts out the lyrics.
4. Chip Bell and Greg Tuel groove together with some "heavy string play".
5. Doug takes off on a drum solo as Greg and Marty watch in mutual admiration.
6. Judges Cindy Cooper and Jeannerre Stonebreaker discuss technical points as they look for a winner.

Mayhem On The Hill

Pledge Day has always been a special thing for club members on campuses across the country. Muskingum, however, has always made it a day for everyone to remember. Fall pledge day seems to be one where we perfect insane antics in preparation for the Spring celebration.

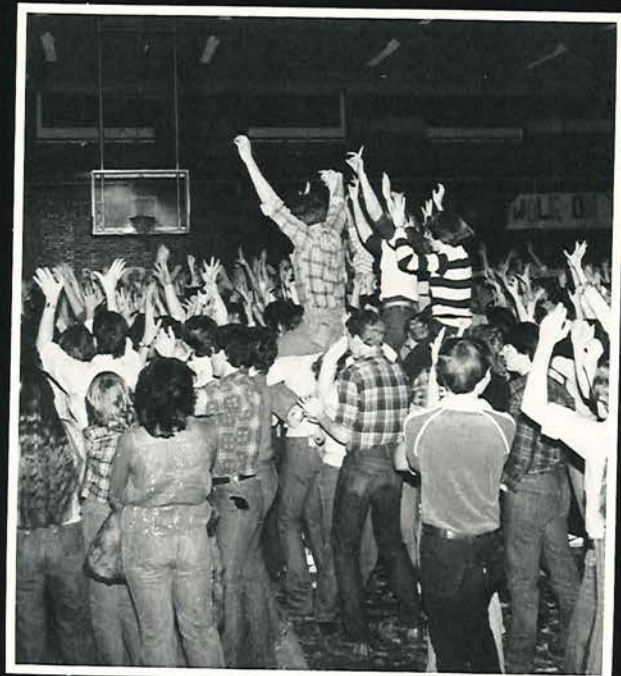

This year, even without a new shirt, Muskie students enjoyed the festivities. As anyone can tell you, the day was just an excuse to have the world's largest snowball fight. And, you were tackled on the hill even if you didn't sign a bid. In the afternoon, the campus was treated to a progressive party along fraternity row. The day was finally capped off by an open house at the Mace place, with kegs and dancing for anyone who could still move.

Rock, Jazz And Wee Haw

Parents Get To Taste College Life

Parents Weekend gives Muskingum students a chance to reunite with their parents, and show them the "alternate lifestyle" of home away from home. The Parents Weekend committee collaborated with many groups at Muskingum to present a variety of entertainment. Orchestras and the Jazz Band combined to provide an afternoon and evening performance of dance and music. Saturday evening was an opportunity for Muskingum students to showcase their many talents. Beth Larimer reigned as Spring Queen over the Weekend festivities. All in all, parents were reassured of their student's college decision, if not a little envious of it.

1. Linda Koehler accompanies herself on a dulcimer during her talent show performance.

2. Dr. Skeen supervised the Parents Weekend Committee.

3. Tara Gardner performs during a dance and jazz showcase.

1. This act is definitely bound for "New York, New York".
2. Tammy Cline and Mary Hamilton harmonize on a favorite selection.
3. Tim Berichon and Greg Eldred mind the bake sale.
4. Karin Collins was both the Independent representative and runner-up.
5. Joyce Eckerr and her father await the Queen announcement.

Live On Stage

The pulse of live productions was as strong at Muskingum as anywhere. Numerous plays were presented at Loyton Theatre and The Little Theatre throughout the year. Productions ranged from Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" to the One-Acts. Those responsible for keeping the tradition strong include the Muskie Players, several faculty hams, and various theatre classes. They certainly deserve another curtain call.

Good Eats!

During finals week our stomachs are often subjected to more abuse than our brains. Sometimes overstuffed and sometimes left feeling very lonely they are forced to become second banana (or no banana as the case may be) to our studies. Once during this week, however, a meal is provided at that hour we are most desperate — midnight. It is at this point we've realized that the difference between 4 am and 5 am is miniscule, and an OJ in Patton café is the most important study aid available. Therefore, an hour spent with a danish and several Muskies caught in the same boar is the best thing for you — not to mention your poor stomach.

1. Sometimes more people crowd around one table than there is really room for.
2. Dick is glad to see so many happy takers for a midnite snack.
3. A good attitude can be half the grade.
4. J.T. and Joe need to perk up.
5. Judging from Denise's retreat, it looks like Eileen is involved in another food fight in Patron Café.

Pig Party

In recent years, a few enterprising seniors managed to organize a pig roast to celebrate the close of their years at Muskingum. This year, however, the event became more official. The senior class, members of "105", and the college got together to plan a weekend party in the hollow. Those who remained for graduation could purchase a ticket entitling them to their fill of beer and pig while it lasted. It was a special occasion — one of many facets. A final celebration has a penchant for the bittersweet. As the class of '82 and friends played together for the last time as fellow students, they realized how short four years really can be.

2. A certain graduate takes his traditional seat to supervise set up.
3. The Delta's "Celebrate the me yet to come" on their favorite dance floor.
4. Fent and Andy take on a more studious appearance for the occasion.

The Lake

For reasons unknown, the Muskie pond and spoonholder suddenly took on a new importance in campus life. Previously, the lake was nice scenery for pictures, home for the "ugly ducks", and used by occasional ice skaters and fishermen. As the warm weather approached, however, K-Mart was besieged by the future sailors of America, and Lakeside Drive became a bustling marina. Towards "the end", crazed seniors could often be seen taking a dive from spoonholder, bridge, and shoreline. Soon, it became a release for everyone. Finishing finals, packing up, and the pig party all seemed to have jumping into the lake in common — jumping for joy so to speak.

Good Luck Graduates!

My thanks to those businesses who endured my "Would you be interested in ..." speech and still supported the Muscoljuan and Muskingum College. Please keep their support in mind and remember they depend upon our support also.

The End

I have a few things I would like to do before ripping apart my last 3-R form. First, are my "Thank You's": To Jonesie, Julie, Susan Lee, Sue, Deb, Tim, and Ashwan — I want you to know your contributions, concern, and moral support didn't go by unnoticed. To Robin Fritts, Jostens Rep, for explaining to me why I couldn't use the funds to purchase each student film and a scrap book in hopes they would do their own book. To Sharon, Maz, Pat, and Parkay — You took being drafted so well. A special thanks to Mom — I hope my daughter never does this to me. Finally, thank you to everyone for taking a late book in stride.

Next are my appologies. If you or something special to you was left out, I'm sorry. Please realize that each person sees the year differently; I attempted to make my impression as universal as available pictures would allow. Good luck Lori and Debu — finishing is worth the trauma.
